

Boris on his bike

Boris has got a bike.
The bike is red.

The bell is silver.
You can see your nose in the bell.
Your nose is very big in the bell.
And you have to laugh.

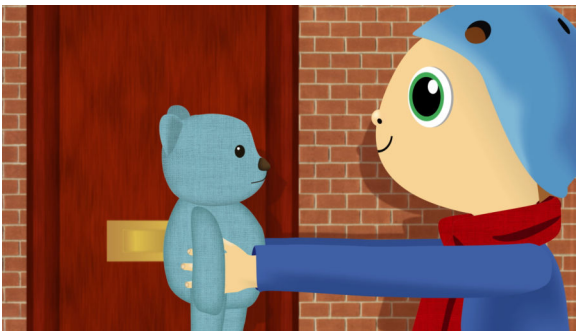

Boris rides his bike on the pavement.
No, not on the street.
The street is for the cars.

Boris is not afraid on his bike.
He holds on tight.
He rings the silver bell.
Bear can come along too.
Because Bear is Boris' friend.

Bear can come along on the back of the bike.
But is Bear happy?
No, Bear is not happy.
I'm gonna fall, Bear shouts.

Boris stops.
What is it, Bear? Are you going to fall?
Yes! I'm gonna fall! says Bear.
What now, Boris?

Boris has a scarf.
Boris takes off his scarf.

He binds the scarf round his tummy.
He makes a big knot in the scarf.

Come here Bear, he says.
He puts Bear behind the scarf.
Between his tummy and the scarf.

Now, Bear is not afraid anymore.
Bear can see everything.
Bear can hear everything.
Out of the way
for Boris and Bear on their bike.
